

BY EDGAR PEREZ

The story of the experiences of Mr. and Mrs. William Sanders Sr. of Bay St. Louis on Pearl Harbor at the time of the Japanese attack on Dec. 7, 1941 which was published in the Sea Coast Echo on Dec. 7, 1978, received a Best Feature Story award from the Mississippi Press Association.

Authored by Echo Publisher Elliott Cuevas, the story was cited by judges of the association's Better Newspaper Contest as "...well told and did not lose the reader."

The judges also complimented the timely publication of the story on the 37th anniversary of the Pearl Harbor attack, which forced the United States entry into World War II.

Cuevas received a third place award for Best Feature Story among all weekly newspapers in Mississippi in 1978 for His Pearl Harbor story.

This award was immediately submitted from an earlier report on awards received by the Echo in the contest presentation at the Mississippi Press Association's annual meeting last week at the Broadwater Beach Hotel in Biloxi.

In addition, the Echo was cited in the community service, general excellence and best news story and investigative reporting categories.

MISSISSIPPI CONSUMER REPORT

A Service of the Consumer Protection Division of the Office of the Attorney General

PLOTTING FOR THE FUTURE

Q. I have been called on the telephone by salesmen of a local cemetery wanting me to buy cemetery property. What should I watch out for in purchasing cemetery property?

A. Inquire into the background of the cemetery, such as how many managers it has had in the past and how long it has been doing business in the area.

Many consumers in Mississippi have been victimized by "Come and go" type operators of cemeteries who are only seeking fat profits.

Compare the cemetery in question to other cemeteries in the general area in such ways as the physical properties, the price differences, and the reputations of the cemeteries.

Be sure to look at the cemeteries yourself in daylight and see exactly what lots you are purchasing. Do not sign any contracts with the intention of looking at the property "tomorrow."

Listen closely to the representations made by cemetery property salesmen. Salesmen interested only in quick profits will usually offer many kinds of gimmicks, such as a free plot "with no strings attached."

These kinds of operators also rely heavily on high-pressure sales pitches, usually in the consumer's home.

Above all, some of these quick-profit cemetery salesmen may pressure you into signing a contract right then, and strongly discourage you from waiting to think it over.

Inexpensive, Tasty Gifts Include Vegetables, Fruits

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Have you started your Christmas shopping yet?

Some inexpensive and delicious Christmas or all-occasion gift ideas are probably right under your nose. Garden-fresh vegetables and fruits are now available for canning and freezing. There are numerous gift ideas in both categories of fresh produce, says Ann Rushing, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service marketing specialist.

In the vegetable area, pickles are an age-old favorite. Numerous vegetables other than cucumbers can be pickled. Pickled okra and pickled zucchini are just two of the many delightful taste treats. Label them with a personalized label, and then put a decorative bow on top. Or, include an inexpensive pickle dish or serving fork along with a jar of your favorite recipe, Mrs. Rushing suggests.

There are numerous relish combinations for you to experiment with. Corn relish and chow-chow are both welcome additions to a hot or cold meal. They're not only flavorful combinations, but they also look pretty. If you don't have up-to-date recipes, contact your county Extension home economist, she suggests.

Fresh fruits conjure up images of delicious jars of chutney, branched fruit, fresh preserves, jelly or fruit pickles. There are numerous easy recipes for these items. If you've never made jelly or jam, you'll find even a beginner can turn out a satisfactory product.

If you plan to use pectin when preparing jams or jellies, look on the pectin package for complete, easy-to-follow directions. Also, don't forget about freezer jams — which keep up to a year in the freezer and two to three weeks in the refrigerator, she says.

Put the jars in a cool, dry place so they're ready for gift-giving at a moment's notice. An especially nice touch to go along with the homemade jams and jellies is your favorite bread baked to perfection.

Get busy preserving delicious fresh produce items now available. When Christmas comes, you'll be able to relax. You'll have the perfect gift tucked away in your pantry — fresh Mississippi produce picked at the peak of quality and preserved with loving care.

When you cast your vote on August 7, 1979 for Sam J. Perniciaro for the office of Supervisor Beat 4, you will put a man in office that will continue to serve you as a full time official of Hancock County and Beat 4.

I have supported many issues to create Industrial Development in our County. I will continue to help all of the people, young and old, to have an opportunity to find jobs within our County. And I must say that the future looks real promising. I have put many hours at McLeod Park to have recreation for the people of our County.

With the growth in our County, I will continue to maintain and pave as many streets as possible to better serve the people. I have two wooden bridges in Beat 4, one on Joe Moran Road and one on B.I. I will continue to support all athletic programs for our young people, as I have in the past, to encourage better sportsmanship in our youth programs.

Floyd R. Fricke

Candidate For Constable Beat One

To the people and voters of Beat One of Hancock County: To those that don't know me, my name is Floyd Fricke. I am 40 years of age and a native of Bay St. Louis, Hancock County.

I am a self-employed owner and operator of F&F Welding and Machine Service.

I am married to the former Virginia Mae Scarbrough of Texarkana, Texas. We have been married for 21 years.

We have five children, Genia, 14; Cheryl, 13; Sandra, 8; and Ruth Ann, 7.

We also have a married daughter, Mrs. Albert Wiley and one granddaughter.

I am a candidate for Constable For Beat One. In the August primary election.

Four years ago I ran for Constable of Beat One, and I received a tremendous amount of support from the voters and people of all five communities of Beat One, which I thank you again for that support.

I am again asking for your support and vote in this election.

I am a high school graduate and a veteran of four and a half years with the U.S. Army. I have served as a military police officer for two years with the 24th military division in Korea.

I have also served the people of Hancock County as an auxiliary deputy sheriff under our present sheriff and under a previous sheriff. I have also served as an auxiliary deputy sheriff in Texarkana, Texas.

I have always rendered my help and services to the people. As a law enforcement officer and citizen.

I have worked during all types of emergencies to help people on my own time and in their time of need.

Hurricanes, floods, drownings, wrecks and all types of accidents, for which I am proud that I was able to help.

My platform to the people and voters of Beat One and Hancock County is:

-When I am elected your constable, I will continue to serve you to the best of my ability as your constable and as a concerned citizen.

-When elected your constable I will purchase a special patrol car for duty use only. This patrol car will be equipped with all types of emergencies, first aid and live saving equipment at my own expense.

While working for the sheriff's department I purchased a police radio and a 10 channel monitor system which I have in my home.

I am in constant touch with the Hancock Sheriff's office, Bay Police, Waveland Police, Highway Patrol, Pass Christian Police, Mobile Medic, Hancock Fire Department, constant weather reports that cover the whole Mississippi and Louisiana Gulf Coasts.

This equipment will be installed in that patrol car with the exception of the radio. That the county will furnish.

It will also have emblems on the doors and emergency red and blue lights. It will be gassed up and ready to roll whenever needed for any type of calls and emergencies 24 hours a day.

I will also be in full dress uniform at all times while on duty.

It is a constable's job to help the people. They will know who their constable is.

I will patrol all of Beat One, all the time, not just when needed.

I hear everyday where someone's home was robbed and broken into. Boats, motor's and trailers and C.B. radios stolen on their shrimp boats.

The men and women of Hancock County have a rough time making their living with shrimp boats and other types of boats. I am a constable and I will protect their property, their boats and their homes over night without someone stealing their property. Crimes and on the line in Hancock County and I will be on the line with you.

I will also work with you to see that your community is safe and secure. I will be on the line with you to see that your community is safe and secure.

BERT COURREGE

Board Of Supervisor-District 1

I would like to appeal to each voter of Hancock County and District 1 to be sincere in voting for candidates to fill our public offices.

The energy crisis, fuel cost, inflation, and now the threat of a bad recession (as predicted by national economists) your vote might be well the most important decision you will ever make.

The future progress and success of America is affected every time we mark an X on a ballot.

Please weigh qualifications and sincerity of each candidate for every office, Federal, State and County.

In my announcement for re-election, I stated my qualifications and in the forthcoming week I will review for you my past 3 1/2 year record as Board of Supervisor-District 1 for your consideration.

Thank you

Buccaneer Crew Notes

By KIM DEDEAUX
Although we evacuated the park Wednesday, Bob did not hamper the weekend fun at Buccaneer State Park. The recreational activities continued as usual.
On Friday, story hour entertained many of the young campers at Buccaneer. The weekly story hour is open to local children as well as campers at 5 p.m. each Friday.
The weekly movie was "Hawaii Revisited." The movie proved to be educational as well as enjoyable.
Saturday, many of the activities were canceled due to weather. We had just enough time for water games at the pool before the rain storm. Many of the children joined together to create a beautiful mural painting. We ended the activities with a grocery bingo.

Reverend Nathan Barber of First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis and many campers joined in a weekly church service to begin the recreation activities for Sunday.
Next on the agenda was basketball. Campers young and old joined together in the games.
Sunday's activities ended with Linda Richards of Harahan, La., winning a scavenger hunt.
Everyone between the ages of 5-15 is invited to take part in our annual fishing rodeo on Saturday.
Age groups are 5-8, 9-12 and 13-15 years.

Credit should go to all with most going to Webre

Last Thursday's important announcement of Borg-Warner locating a $50-million plant at Port Bienville didn't just happen overnight.

Many community leaders worked long and hard hours to bring about the locating of this blue chip industry to Hancock. Wilson Webre, as executive director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, probably worked harder than anyone else in the area to land this industry.

A lot of folks do not realize just how much Borg-Warner knows about Hancock County, but we are willing to say they know more than most of us who live here.

Unbeknownst to many, teams of representatives of Borg-Warner have been visiting our county and evaluating every facet from government to how we eat and sleep.

Never have we heard such praise given our political leaders as was given by the Borg-Warner representatives.

There were a lot of communities competing for the industry to locate in their area and Hancock was the winner.

Remarks like the 'professional' presentation made by Hancock County can only lead us to congratulate all the leaders of the political subdivisions of the county.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors, the Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland should all be proud of their appointments to the Port and Harbor Commission, all seven members, and of course the executive director.

We have been looked at from all angles during the past five years by Borg-Warner's representatives and they liked what they saw.

We must all remember it wasn't only the political facets Borg-Warner checked over, but the whole community, including you, each and everyone of you.

Borg-Warner will mean more jobs, a thing we have been lacking for so many years. When the timber industry went, so did most jobs in Hancock County.

The timber industry went before most of us here today were born.

For those of you who do not know, right now approximately 400 are employed at Port Bienville. If we would not have an Industrial Park we probably wouldn't have those jobs.

The addition of Borg-Warner will mean another 100 jobs when construction is completed in 1982. Many construction workers will be in demand during the 30 months of building the plant.

The Port and Harbor Commission can now be selective with new industries looking for sites.

We have some fine industries already at Port Bienville and the addition of Borg-Warner helps make the development the envy of many a county in Mississippi and other states.

Congratulations to Wilson Webre, the Port and Harbor Commission, Hancock County Board of Supervisors, officials of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, and the people of Hancock County.

Think, when we are helping our neighbor!

There are times when we offer to help someone in need, but not realizing it, are just in the way.

We are especially referring to the case of house fires. We go charging to the scene and park without realizing we are possibly blocking the road for fire equipment.

The unified effort in Hancock County by the fire companies means there is the possibility of other equipment from further distances to arrive on the scene as backups when there is a big fire.

This blocking of fire trucks happened last Saturday at the Shoreline Park fire. Firemen were unable to reach the home because vehicles were parked in the center of the road.

As a matter of fact, some of the fire trucks could not get out because a car was parked in the center of the road behind fire equipment.

We realize if you are the first at the scene there is a possibility you may be able to help someone, but you should try to park on the side of the road. Fire trucks are wider than automobiles and take more room.

One more thing firemen are always cautious about is electricity and there was a live wire sending sparks in all directions at the fire Saturday.

Utility trucks usually are summoned and they must have an open lane to reach the scene as well as emergency medical help which is often required at fires.

When we try to help, let all of us consider if we are really helping.

PERMANENT CONSTRUCTION? - We know there is a City of Bay St. Louis ordinance against using mobile homes or trailers as a place of residence. We also know several months ago the Mobile Medic wanted to purchase some property in Bay St. Louis and put a Mobile Home on it for their emergency personnel to use and were refused. We just wonder if there isn't an ordinance against trailers being used for commercial business. One enters the City and this is about the first sight he sees. Maybe some authorities should check into these buildings.

Diamondhead fire station bids eyed

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday took under advisement three bids for construction of a fire station in the Diamondhead Fire Protection District.

Balboa Services Inc. of Gulfport bid $92,291; A and B Construction Co. of Gulfport, $96,500; and T. L. Pittman Jr. of Hattiesburg $107,871 on the project. In another project to asphalt 15 county roads, a bid submitted by Pearl River Paving Inc. was taken under advisement.

A second bid, submitted by Necale Construction Co. of Pass Christian, was disqualified because an affidavit was not signed.

Supervisors approved a bid from James T. Ward of Ward Well Drilling to construct a two-inch water well 200 feet deep in Beat Five. He was the only bidder.

In other business, 27 BaySide Park residents submitted a petition requesting speed bumps be installed on Hancock Drive, the main road in that subdivision.

The supervisors filed the petition in their minutes and took the request under advisement. Board Attorney Walter Gex warned supervisors creation of speed bumps in that area would have a potential of making the county liable in cases of vehicles involved in accidents related to the bumps.

FBI alerts potential vacation crime

When you go on vacation, make sure that crime doesn't travel along with you.

Unless you take the proper precautions, crime can become an unpleasant part of your vacation. When the summer months arrive, criminals seem to work harder and the number of crime victims increases.

To insure that you can fully enjoy your vacation, here are some suggested strategies that should make you and your family less vulnerable to crime. —Even before leaving home, make sure that your residence will have that "occupied-at-the-moment" appearance while you are gone.

—As you travel, try to avoid having that "I'm a tourist" look about your car. Vacationers' autos are frequently victimized because thieves know that travelers often leave valuables in their vehicles.

Maps and travel brochures left on the dash and seats are telltale signs that the occupants of the car are vacationers.

Clothing hanging in a car or luggage on the back seat is an open invitation to car burglars.

Whenever possible, don't leave those items in your car while the vehicle is unattended.

Instead, put them in the trunk or a safe at the hotel.

Don't carry large amounts of money. If you must, carry it in a money belt or a small, inconspicuous bag.

Don't wear jewelry or expensive watches. If you must, wear a watch that is not a brand name.

Be alert to your surroundings. If you see something suspicious, report it to the police.

20, the second meeting in August." Kellar added exemption of the 607 acres would amount to approximately $900 per year.

Ocean Springs attorney Earl Denham, representing the society, presented three witnesses—Garry Loscocco, Krishna school academic adviser; Darrell Martin, Krishna member; and Hancock County Agent John Smith.

Denham asked the board to exempt the Krishnas from taxes on all 607 acres on the basis the property is used for school and church purposes.

The Krishnas members were questioned by supervisors and board attorney Walter Gex and Bay St. Louis attorney Sam Farve, former board attorney who held that position when the Krishnas were granted a tax exemption on 10 acres of their land some four years ago.

After the Krishna representatives described the way of life at their farm, Gex said, "The supervisors will determine how much land is being used for church purposes, if any at all; how much is being used for school purposes, if any at all; and finally, how many acres shall receive an exemption."

Loscocco, who has a bachelor of science degree in mathematics, said, "We have 607 acres at the farm which is used for cow protection, pastures, residences, a temple and a school. Loscocco added, "It is our philosophy to protect the cows—they give us milk and we feed them...they are the center of our rural way of life."

Farve questioned, "How many acres are used for the temple and how many for the school?"

"All land is used for both purposes. The House of Krishna is the center of the community," Loscocco replied.

The Krishna member noted other activities on the farm support school and religious activities, therefore all the land is used for school and church purposes.

Denham interjected, "They have no occupation other than what I consider a monastery."

"Our objective," Krishna member Martin emphasized, "is to become a self-sufficient, God conscious community."

"Our primary reason for the farm," Martin continued, "is to return to being a self-sufficient group and be an example for the whole world to see and live by."

"We want to get away from hellish machines and factories and technology that experiments with life by trying to create it in a test tube," Martin asserted.

"Our primary purpose," he noted, "is the education of youth in many things, in God realization and how you can live in harmony with nature."

Beat Five Supervisor James Travira interjected, "I totally disagree with that—that's pathetic. 'God is the main theme, we teach about God and simultaneously other things,'" Martin added.

Denham joined the discussion, saying, "If the Methodist Church had an 80-acre retreat with cabins and a little chapel would you really have a problem granting them an exemption on their property?"

"I keep telling them (Krishnas)," Denham continued, "if they obey the laws they'll reap the benefits; I keep telling them that—and I keep hoping it'll be true."

Kellar said he had heard reports the Krishnas were keeping people at the Krishna farm against their will.

Martin denied the reports. Some supervisors explained they had seen a documentary on television which showed Krishna members using "unfair" methods to solicit contributions for Krishna literature.

Martin explained members who live in the city solicit contributions, but those who live in rural areas use the land to provide for themselves.

County agent Smith stated, "10 to 15 acres per animal would be needed to sustain an animal unit at the Krishna farm considering they are using organic fertilizer."

The Krishna community consists of approximately 100 cows, eight families and about 24 children ranging from ages four to 13, according to the society's representatives.

However, the members noted, there is an influx of persons to and from the farm and resident figures may change considerably.

Gex said he personally feels the Krishnas are not entitled to a tax break because the community claims it is a school.

"The community is not a school in the sense that I perceive a school—an institution which educates persons to be functional within our society," Gex explained.

However, Gex said he feels the community is applicable for a tax exemption as a religious institution.

The question now is determining how much of the community is used for religious activities, he added.

examined and questioned expenditures in the unofficial budget proposed by the superintendent.

Board President Virginia Gex was the only member to seek a change in the budget, asking a Bay Bridge high cheerleader expenditure of $2,079 be reduced.

The official budget will be presented to the board for approval at an official meeting tonight at 6 p.m.

McCulloch proposed a total operating budget of roughly $2,616,988. These operating revenues from local, state, and federal monies also includes a cash balance of $226,844 remaining from the previous year.

McCulloch stated expenditures for the 1979-1980 school year roughly total $2,454,133, excluding five recommendations requested by the superintendent Tuesday.

McCulloch recommended hiring a reading supervisor with a master's degree to coordinate a district reading program; additional insurance coverage on school buildings; purchase of three service trucks; the teacher raises; and a female physical education teacher for the district.

The superintendent's recommendations would cost some $7,400 if approved tonight, increasing total expenditures in the district to approximately $2,461,533.

Total expenditures, excluding the recommendations, are divided primarily into four categories: maintenance, $1,785,810; debt service, $475,810; and other, $355,368. Board members James Ginn and Gex emphasized the need to bring the property taxes down to a reasonable level.

McCulloch said he only made enough copies of the proposed budget to be distributed to the five board members, and none were available Tuesday night for public examination.

Ms. Gex said media representatives could "look over our shoulders" if they wished to examine the proposals.

Ginn said he may recommend some changes in the budget, adding, "Janitors within the school district cost approximately $2,000 per month."

He said he feels this figure is exorbitant and suggested having one central supply and purchasing center in the school system to reduce supply costs.

Ginn additionally stressed the need for the school district to preserve and "take proper care" of equipment in the school district as a means for saving money.

"I want to examine all costs in the budget more closely," Ginn said.

Of five teachers who were present, some complained that in the past they had problems getting instructional supplies for their classes, such as workbooks.

Ginn and board member Maurice Singleton rallied behind the teachers, saying, "Academic education of the children is our first priority and if you have problems such as these let us know."

Ginn elaborated on the problem, saying, "If the instructional materials are not available, the children will not learn. We must have the materials available before the school year begins."

Ginn recommended that the board, with the superintendent and the board, make a list of the instructional materials needed for the school year and purchase them before the school year begins.

$48 billion spent on GI education

An investment of $48.3 billion in public money has been made during the past 35 years to provide GI Bill education and training for 17.6 million veterans of military service during World War II, the Korean Conflict, the post-Korean period and the Vietnam Era.

The Veterans Administration disclosed these figures in observance of the 35th anniversary of the original GI Bill.

On June 22, 1944, when President Roosevelt signed the "Servicemen's Readjustment Act of 1944" into law, neither he nor the 78th Congress which passed it thought of it as an investment. Their emphasis was on giving "emphatic notice to the men and women of our Armed Forces that the American people did not intend to let them down."

On the 35th anniversary of this historic piece of legislation, it is apparent that its education and home loan provisions have been good for America as well as for America's veterans.

In addition to what the programs did for individual veterans, they stimulated the growth of educational institutions, gave the country a better educated work force and helped foster the greatest housing boom in history.

Since 1944, over 10 million veterans have used more than $161 billion in Veterans Administration guaranteed home loans.

Education opportunities offered by the bill and follow-on legislation are being snapped up at an ever increasing rate: 65 percent of eligible Vietnam Era veterans have used their GI Bill benefits versus 50 percent for WWII and 42 percent of the Korean conflict. A total of 4.4 million Vietnam veterans have studied at the college level under the GI Bill while 2.2 million WWII veterans did so. Yet there were 15.5 million veterans eligible after WWII and only 8.8 million after the Vietnam War.

VA Administrator Max Cleland said, "Whether changes in the GI Bill during its 35 years of life have favored the original beneficiaries or the current ones is still debated. But there seems to be no doubt about the economic wisdom of the public investment in education and housing for veterans."

USM theatre season begins with comedy

The University of Southern Mississippi Southern Arena Theatre (SAT) will present Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" as the first play in the company's summer repertory.

"Importance" has been regarded by most critics as one of the most glitteringly polished comedies in the language. It will be presented six times beginning Friday, July 20 at the Southern Playhouse.

First produced in 1895 in London, it is the last play before the Irish-born author's famous trial for sexual perversion. The "Earnest" in title is not the dictionary meaning of the word - serious or sincere purpose - but the actual name of the lead character.

When John Worthing played by Greg Alexander of Charlotte, NC, uses a small lie to slip away to London for a private fling the action quickly escalates into mayhem and romantic intrigue. David Stevens of Petal will play Worthing's sidekick Algernon Moncrief.

Appearing as two young women beguiled by their charm are Stephanie Morris of Wesson and Claire Goulet of Long Beach.

Other cast members include Denise Childers of Laurel; Pat Kennerly of Roanoke, VA; Lena Crafton and David Wheeler of Kennel, MD; and Curtis Love of Biloxi.

The first SAT production will be directed by Dr. Warren Robertson Theatre professor at USM with the set done by George Crook and costumes by Larry Mulligan.

Other plays in the SAT repertory season lasting three weeks, till Aug. 11, are "The Waltz of the Toreadors" and "The Heiress."

call Elaine Ainsworth, secretary, 255-1181; or Ellis Cuevas, queen chairman, at 256-7184.

Grand Ole Opry stars to appear at the Gumbo Festival will be announced 30 days before the event, Breaux said.

Breaux reports, "We have five headline performers signed up for the Festival, but they have until 30 days before the event to cancel and we want to make sure they are going to be here before we release their names."

"We will have five top performers from Nashville at the Gumbo Festival regardless," Breaux added.

Stars to visit Necale Crossing in previous festivals were Mo Bandy, Jeanie C. Riley, Stu Phillips, Norvell Phelps and Kitty Wells and family.

"Since we started this Gumbo Festival in 1974, we have strived to make it a County function."

In the beginning we see only recognized regionally but now we are known world-wide with the visit to Washington last Spring," Breaux commented.

Breaux said that the contests are open to all residents of the area in such categories as gumbo cooking, gumbo eating, baby pageant, cake baking, candy making, and quilting.

The 1979 Gumbo Festival is expecting more than 20,000 visitors and any County civic organization interested in having a booth for the weekend should contact Mrs. L.J. Breaux at 255-7281 or the secretary.

The 500 gallon gumbo pot will again be displayed in various shopping centers throughout the County promoting the Gumbo Festival.

Success in previous Gumbo Festivals have been used to construct a Community Center and a new County Jail. The Community Center is used for youth dances.

A ballfield has also been constructed and a bridge across the river which was needed in the community.

Several other projects are being planned for the future, including a new bridge across the river and a new bridge across the river.

Hole.....

The Engineers used a weighted line in their second test and it rested on top of the soft bottom, according to Boudin. Boudin said he had a 14 foot board and it went down seven feet to the silt and then another seven feet and could have gone down further.

Waveland Mayor Johnny Longo had signs erected on the sand beach this week warning people of the hazardous conditions.

"The signs had been on order sometime and as soon as they came in the City installed them," Longo said.

Wednesday morning Longo commented, "I didn't had been for the concern of the two supervisors and Lee Farrell. They have been accepted that the hole is not a problem. We know how many have died and we will have to know how many more could have died if more precautions were not taken."

The Mayor continued, "I am happy to hear the City of Ocean Springs confirm the danger does exist."

The Mayor expressed dismay over the fact that the two supervisors and Lee Farrell have been accepted that the hole is not a problem. We know how many have died and we will have to know how many more could have died if more precautions were not taken."

Area officials agreed and some recommendations were made to the City of Ocean Springs to take more precautions.

Bay Council mulls gas rate dilemma

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Bay St. Louis City Council held a short regular meeting Tuesday night with the main topic cost of gas in the City.

Last week John Wyatt, representing Concerned Citizens presented a graph with the old gas rate and two proposals made by Kelly McQueen, city clerk. McQueen said that Wyatt failed to take into consideration the 35 to 40 percent rate increase which will be effective in August in preparing the graphs.

"The current rate would be more than the two proposals I made to the Council than the present rate for most customers when you add the increase," McQueen said.

McQueen added, "The rate increase was considered by me in the two proposals and probably Wyatt didn't realize that when making the graphs." "We are going to have to do something by August 15, if not we will start losing $8,000 monthly with it increasing more because of the cold weather coming," McQueen allowed. Council was unanimous in the acceptance of several proposals by Accu-Computer Systems Company for the adding of other information to be used on customers utility bills by the computer used by the City.

A discussion was held about conversations with Jim McDonald of the State Board of Health in reference to the Small Cities Program for 1978.

The project is being held up until the Council gets the well in complete operation at Leonhard Street.

Dr. Michael Smith, president of Advanced Developments, Inc., is in the process of drawing up plans and specifications for the required well and pump improvements.

Dr. Smith was to meet with the Council Wednesday evening at 5 p.m. with suggestions.

In an appearance after the regular meeting was recessed, Smith in an informal conversation said he had a lot of trouble getting information because the City didn't have any records of any type such as schemes and prints of the pumps and he had to order them from the factory.

Several Council members gave indications they were going to declare the Leonhard Street Well an emergency because they are receiving complaints from the Housing and Urban Development Department (HUD) for not getting started on the 1978 project.

General discussion indicated the State Board of Health has been on the City's back through several administrations to do something with the Leonhard Street Well and no definite actions had been taken.

Dr. Smith said, "The Board of Health will not give approval of the Small Cities project until the City gets the well work under contract, if I read them correctly."

Council discussed the gas lines on St. John, Julia and Washington Streets. A mention was made of several residents complaining about the St. John Well at a recent 1979 Small Cities Hearing.

Council was in agreement according to president Pete Benvenuti, on getting the bad gas lines repaired.

Council was in agreement a Jim Thrifflay reported the national average for loss is 6 percent and Bay St. Louis loses 16 percent through leaks.

The Councilman said, "We could probably pay for the losses by replacing the lines."

Councilmen Wilmer Seymour and Harry Farve both said they hope the City could do something.

Council recessed until 5 p.m. Wednesday.

ANIMAL BEHAVIOR

In the next film in the "Jane Goodall and the World of Animal Behavior" series, viewers are transported to the shore of Lake Tanganyika and into the midst of the Beach Troop, a flourishing society of 40 bolderous baboons. "The Baboons of Gombe" can be seen at 7 p.m., Thursday, July 19, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Filmed over a period of several years by Dr. Goodall and her former husband, producer-director photographer Baron Hugo van Lawick, the special program provides insights into baboon behavior at Gombe National Park in Tanzania, where Dr. Goodall's research station is located. Every male in the troop has a rank ranging from "general" to "buck private."

Grina, the "general" of Beach Troop, asserts his position by taking over the territory occupied by a subordinate. Suddenly the troop is thrown into a panic as the hulking Stranger enters the scene. He is a huge male, a foreigner to the troop, intent on claiming a place among its ranks. The battle that ensues is frightful to behold.

'DANCER FROM THE DANCE, By Andrew Holleran-An August Bantam paperback. The novel is an account of a young man's search for love in the gay world.

The central figure of the novel is Malone, beautiful, adored, the focus of the gossip and dreams of an exotic, hedonistic discotheque world. Remaining unapproachable and detached, Malone pursues his quest through myriad encounters, from the romantic to the brutally lustful.

Malone's friend and dancing partner is Sutherland, an aging, outrageous drag queen with a tireless vivacity and a cutting wit.

Dressed in Halston, encased in long black gloves past the elbows, he will draw to a lovelorn boy, "My dear, if you're going to be serious I'd better change my clothes!"

Sutherland is Malone's dark angel, his guide through the netherworld.

As the novel ends in the aftermath of a wild bacchanalian party on Fire Island, Malone has become an almost mythic figure, personifying the elusive love the Dancers always seek but seldom find.

Andrew Holleran is Harvard-educated, a lapsed Catholic, a veteran and a romantic. DANCER FROM THE DANCE is his first novel. He resides in New York City.

OG MANDINO'S NEWEST BOOK - 'THE GIFT OF ACABAR' - To be published in Bantam paperback on August 1.

For the millions of readers around the world who have drawn hope and inspiration from Og Mandino's books - The Greatest Salesman in the World, The Greatest Miracle in the World, and The Greatest Secret in the World - Bantam will publish his newest work, THE GIFT OF ACABAR, in paperback on August 1.

A parable in the tradition of the Little Prince, THE GIFT OF ACABAR was co-authored by songwriter Buddy Kaye.

Og Mandino is Bantam's No. 1 bestselling author of religious and inspirational books.

His "Greatest Series" has more than 4 million copies in print in 14 languages and Braille, and the Bantam editions of these three books now have nearly 2.5 million copies combined in print.

The Lippincott hardcover edition of THE GIFT OF ACABAR has over 150,000 copies in print.

In THE GIFT OF ACABAR, a crippled Laplander boy named Tulo sends up his kite to gather light for his darkened village. He captures in the strings of his kite a light far more precious and divine than he had ever hoped for - the star Acabar that was fixed in the heavens above a cave in Bethlehem 2000 years before. Acabar gives Tulo a message of hope and peace, and teaches him many lessons, among them:

"Adversity is not a curse, it's a blessing. Show me a human being who has never suffered adversity and I'll show you the most unhappy person on earth. You live in a world filled with people making excuses for their failure because it is always easier to quit than to keep trying."

Acclaimed by clergy of all faiths, Og Mandino's books are often used by success seminars, penal rehabilitation groups, corporation training programs and athletics groups, to motivate their members.

His stature in the field of inspirational literature has prompted Irving Wallace and David Wallechinsky to use Mandino's list of the "Twenty Best 'How-To' Books of All Time" in their forthcoming Book of Lists, Volume Two. Og Mandino lives in Scottsdale, Arizona with his wife and two sons.

Buddy Kaye is a songwriter and lyricist whose songs have sold more than 50 million records around the world. He is the producer of a Grammy Award-winning LP, The Little Prince, narrated by Richard Burton.

THE GIFT OF ACABAR is his first published novel.

MEV AWARDS

The Mississippi Authority for Educational Television received two awards recently from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB) and from the American Bar Association (ABA). The program on pre-natal care and vaccinations from Mississippi ETV's second series of adult education programs, "Just Around the Corner II," received a 1979 CPB local television program award for "providing basic information on a significant health problem affecting our nation." The citation also read, "The production quality of the program was outstanding, reflecting concise editing, good writing and professional acting. The judges were further impressed with Mississippi ETV's innovative use of soap opera format to communicate to under-educated adults." The ABA awarded a certificate of merit to Mississippi ETV for "The Parchman Trials," a production dramatizing events, depositions and trial testimony at the Mississippi State Penitentiary.

Ask Those Who Know Him Best!

* KNOWLEDGE

* EXPERIENCE

* ABILITY

The best way to find out if a person is doing a good job is to ask the people who use his services on a regular basis. If you have any doubt at all about the job that John D. "Big John" Rutherford is doing as your Chancery Clerk, consider the following:

County Finances

As County Treasurer, the Chancery Clerk is responsible for all disbursements, and deposits of tax monies. This includes federal and state, as well as local tax monies. The State Auditor has just completed a tax audit of the County books for 1977 and made the report to the Board of Supervisors last Thursday has found Hancock County to be in good financial shape, and all the books and bookkeeping procedures are in proper order. If you have any doubts about my ability to look after your best interests, ask HAMP KING, STATE AUDITOR, JACKSON, MS.

Chancery Court

Another of the important jobs of the Chancery Clerk is that of clerk of the chancery court. Accurate and up-to-date record keeping is essential if the court is to operate properly. The maintenance of the Chancery Court docket is absolutely necessary if the court is to operate efficiently. The Chancery Court records of Hancock County are up-to-date and the court operates in a professional and efficient manner. If you have any doubts, ask any Chancery Court Judge who has served in Hancock County during the past eight years.

Record Keeping

At one time or another almost everyone has an occasion to use the Chancery Clerk's office. Usually, it is through an attorney in a land or property transaction. Proper recording of deeds and other legal documents is the Chancery Clerk's responsibility. This is where accuracy, knowledge and ability are important. If you have any doubts about the condition of the records of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, ask your lawyer. Or better yet, ask any lawyer.

Five Times to Contact Social Security Office

There are 5 times when a person should get in touch with a social security office, a social security representative said recently.

Knowing the 5 times for action is too important to take for granted. It can mean greater security for a worker and his or her family, the spokesperson said.

The 5-times are:
• Before a person gets his or her first job—to apply for a social security number. A person should allow 4 to 6 weeks to get a card.
• After a death in the family—to see if survivors' benefits or a

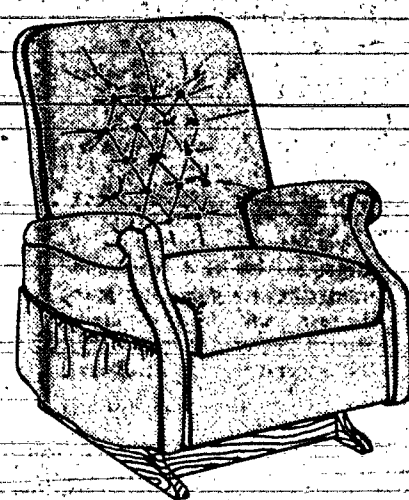

You can conduct most all of your social security business on the telephone. Look in your directory for the number.

If you are housebound or hospitalized, you can arrange to have social security representative visit you.

Call your social security office before you make a visit. You may save yourself a trip.

People who think they may be eligible for SSI payments should apply as soon as possible at a social security office. No payments can be made for months before an application is filed.

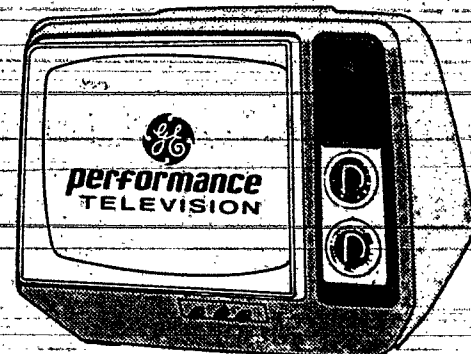

• When a person reaches retirement age—65 for full rate cash benefits or as early as 62 for reduced payments. A person should come in 2 or 3 months before 65 to arrange Medicare protection even though he or she is not retiring.

FISHIN' TIPS

from Tom Mann

MISTER MANN: "I read I knock on his door around midnight where you advised fishing for fun, night."

DEAR TOM: "I've got a friend who knows everything and what he says a fish can't smell worth a hoot." ARKY.

HELLO ARKY: The heck they can't just forget some in a live-well like I did for two days. Talk about smell! But seriously, fish do have a very keen sense of smell.

MR. MANN: "What's the best time to fish?"

HELLO MANN: I don't know. It changes with the season. Let the bass tell you by trying various colors until you find the one they really want. Always begin with black.

HELLO FUN FISHER: Well, nothing wrong with that if the neighbor really enjoys them and doesn't mind cleaning them when black.

Boating Tips...

KEEP PIRATES AT BAY

As boating activity picks up, so does piracy. But boaters can do a lot to frustrate thieves. The Mercury outboard-boating experts remind you to secure your boat trailer with a stout chain and padlock when it's hooked to the family car, and when it's parked at home. If you leave your boat, take your ignition key with you. If your small motor doesn't have a key switch, take out the gas tank. Thieves like outboard motors. Inexpensive locking devices are available to help prevent theft of big and small outboards. If your rig is stolen, it's wise to have a photograph of your boat to give to police. And provide them with serial numbers of all valuable equipment aboard.

PERFECT FISHING DAY
Everyone likes to go fishing when the sun is shining, the sky is blue and the weather is great. Except bass fishermen. They're the exception. They don't like the sun or blue skies, and the weather is best when it's almost storming. There's a good explanation for this according to Mercury outboard fishing experts, who point out that bass react to the amount of light penetrating the water and go to deep water on bright, sunny days.

The weather this past week has not been the best for fishing, with thunderstorms the reason for the poor conditions.

But we should be thankful for the rain the storms have brought us. Without the rain our lawns and gardens would dry up like a desert. We should thank God for the rain and the sunshine.

Despite the stormy weather some of our local fishermen still made some nice catches. Harry Gilmore and his two sons Ricky and Kenny and Mark France caught 182 specks and white trout.

The Gilmores and Lester Martin went out again Sunday and caught 282 specks and white trout.

Leave some for me, boys. The Gulfport Rodeo was a big success.

Wily, Indigestible Armadillo Prospering Where Other Wildlife Species Fade Away

While wildlife all over the earth is diminishing, the strange-looking armadillo is not only surviving, but flourishing. What has the armadillo got that other animals don't?

A good suit of armor, for one thing. According to the current issue of Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine, the armadillo, whose name comes from a Spanish word meaning "little armored one," is encased in a suit of hard, bony shells. One shell covers its head, and two shells connected by movable bands cover its body. The animal's tail is covered with hard rings which are locked together.

When taken by surprise, the armadillo curls up in a tight ball to protect its soft belly, explains the National Wildlife Federation's monthly publication for children.

Faced with such a jaw-breaking prospect, most would-be predators are willing to look elsewhere for their dinner.

Usually, the armadillo's keen sense of smell alerts it to any danger. Then, in a flash, the animal digs itself completely out of sight. Once hidden in a burrow, the armadillo arches its back and wedges itself in tightly, says Ranger Rick. In this position, it becomes impossible for anything to pull the mammal loose, even though the end of its tail might be sticking above ground.

If an armadillo is near a river or other body of water when danger approaches, it jumps in, fills its stomach and intestine with gulp after gulp of air, and thus inflated, floats serenely to safety. "Stranger yet," reports Ranger Rick, "the animal sometimes just drops to the bottom and walks across."

These natural defenses help explain some of the armadillo's staying power, but other mammals have evolved equally effective survival techniques and still their range and numbers decline. The armadillo's secret, scientists agree, is that it is one animal which has been helped, not hindered, by civilization's encroachment on the wilderness.

Land Use Often Affected By Government Policies

MISSISSIPPI STATE Government policy and organizations affecting food must provide incentives and opportunities for income production and better distribution of food, according to Dr. Bob T. Chapin, coordinator, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Land Use Center.

Research on groups and money policies is essential, information systems are increasing rapidly through computer analysis, TV tape transmittal, storage and remote sensing inventories. Research is needed on product information requirements, crop monitoring systems and international data bases for land and nutrition, and total information system designs, he adds.

The policies in Taiwan have contributed to increased food production, lower death rates and reduced birth rates, but this is not always the case. Sometimes, technology that permits farmers to grow more food at a lower cost per unit of output is offset by government policies that influence the price of farm products and inputs. These policies can make increased production unprofitable, and thus discourage use of new technology.

"Freezing Russian grain shipments by legislation or striking union members hurt American wheat farmers," he explains. "We must learn more about how such policies and actions work."

Policies affecting agricultural production could encourage the replacement of nutritious food crops with less nutritious crops. Farm income and proper diet might move in opposite directions. Inadequate credit or marketing services can affect the flow of seed, fertilizer, fuel, machinery and proper land use. We must learn more about these problems, says Dr. Chapin.

Policies that limit access to land, water or fishing grounds can reduce productivity. Trade policies should be examined closely.

Social science research on food and nutrition is behind that of biological science because of a lack of skilled personnel, methods, data, funding and organization, says Dr. Chapin. We need to know why people buy certain low quality foods instead of more nutritious foods of similar prices. Once sound research reveals the answer, it must be delivered to the public.

"Each time a crop is changed, it affects the use of the land which produces that crop. Therefore, government and organizational policies do affect land use," he adds.

ATTEND COURT SEMINAR - Area officials participating in the recent Youth Court Seminar in Jackson included (from left) Michael Haas of Bay St. Louis, youth court referee; Emily Baker of Pascagoula, Jackson County Youth Court Judge; Martha Love of Waynesboro, youth court referee and municipal judge; and Michael Ward of Gulfport, Harrison County family court judge. The purpose of the conference was to clarify and explain the new Youth Court Act which became effective July 1. The three-day program was sponsored by the Mississippi Criminal Justice Planning Commission and coordinated by the Mississippi Department of Youth Services and the Mississippi Judicial College, a continuing education activity of the University of Mississippi Law Center.

VA News

Q - My husband died on September 8, 1972. I would like to install a marker of my own instead of one supplied by VA. I have been told there has been a change in the law and that I might receive an allowance to apply to the cost of a stone I purchase. Is this true?

A - To be eligible for the marker allowance, burial must have taken place on or after October 18, 1972, the effective date of the law. The VA will pay up to $50.00 toward the cost of a marker.

Q - I obtained a VA guaranteed home loan in 1973 and sold the home on an assumption contract in 1977. The buyer still owns the home and is paying on the original VA guaranteed mortgage. Can I get another VA guaranteed loan now?

A - Possibly. Since 1973 the maximum VA loan guaranty entitlement has been increased to $25,000 from $12,500. Although the entitlement you used in 1973 is still committed on your prior loan, you can use part of your increased entitlement to purchase a new home under the VA program if you can locate a lender willing to make a loan with that amount of entitlement.

Q - An acquaintance was notified by VA that he is eligible for service-connected insurance. Can I get it too?

A - Veterans separated from the service on or after April 26, 1951, who have been granted a service connected disability of 10 percent or more for which compensation would be payable, are eligible if they are otherwise in good health. Disabled veterans must file for this insurance within one year from the date the VA notifies them of their service connected disability.

Q - My father was an honorably discharged war time veteran. When he died a year ago, we were not aware of his eligibility for burial benefits. Can we still apply for those benefits?

A - A claim for burial benefits must be filed within two years following a veteran's permanent burial or cremation. Contact your nearest VA regional office for assistance.

Q - My deceased husband was a veteran, and I was in the Army too. Why can't I get a pension as his survivor and also as a veteran in my own right?

"I can help you get the most from your life insurance dollar"

Like a good insurance agent, I'll be there for you.

Keep only a limited amount of money in your account accessible by electronic funds transfer, and watch your account like a hawk. As the law now stands, you, the consumer, share liability with the bank.

If an unauthorized transfer of funds occurs, and you notify the bank within two days, your liability will be no more than $50. You are liable for up to $500 if you wait from two and sixty days. If 60 days has passed, you could lose everything in your savings account, without effective recourse.

COST CUTTERS

Carry less cash and use less credit. Plan your spending and saving and keep a record of spending and saving. (Stretch your dollars 15 percent.) Shop smartly and sharply. Compare prices. Shop with a list of needs and amounts you can spend. (Stretch your dollars 30 percent.)

Use what you have - redo, maintain, repair or remodel. (Stretch your dollars 10 to 50 percent.)

Perform services you and your family can wisely do to save service dollars. (Save 5 to 15 percent.)

If you have charge accounts, try to buy at the start of the billing cycle so you won't be billed for 25 days. Pay before interest begins on revolving accounts.

Avoid waste. Some families save $1,000 to $2,000 a year on food and clothing by avoiding waste. (The Average household wastes 20 percent of food each day.)

Consider bargain shopping. If you save $2.22 a day controlled spending, that's a saving of $810.30 a year.

Take advantage of surplus and seasonal sales. Buy clothes and furnishings at 10 to 50 percent savings.

Consider renting equipment you need only a short time. Watch your habits. Consider waste and self-indulgence. A dollar a day saved is $365.00 a year.

Build up your savings account and then borrow from yourself and save 12 to 18 percent by paying cash for special items.

Substitute other resources for money. Learn to barter or trade.

Learn and develop skill in the market, skill in thrift, skill in the use of credit and skill in the use of the finance institute.

SATURDAY DOUBLE FEATURE — The destroyers FIFE (DD-591) and FLETCHER (DD-592) will be the stars in a double christening ceremony Saturday at Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton Industries in Pascagoula, MS. The gas turbine-powered ships are named in honor of two admirals of World War II fame and are the last two destroyers of the multi-mission SPRUANCE-Class being built by Ingalls for the Navy. Of the total 30-ship construction program, 21 are in service with the Fleet, with the last nine — including FIFE and FLETCHER — scheduled for one-month delivery.

Wasting time is wasting life

"O what a wonderful stream is the River of Time, as it flows through the Valley of the years," was written by an unknown poet, who was referring to the book written by Arnold Bennett.

Arnold Bennett, writer of a number of good books started out as a low paid clerk in a law office.

He dreamed of becoming a writer, but he almost gave up the idea because he was having to work hard all the time, and did not see how he could ever have time enough to achieve his goal.

Time to do the things he wanted to do was his great problem. He came to realize that time is the most precious thing that any human being has, that time is the most useful element in a person's life — that wasting time is wasting life itself.

He set out to make the best possible use of his time — his 24 hours a day, to make every hour count.

So Arnold Bennett scheduled his time so as to take care of all the duties of his job and the necessities of life such as sleeping, eating, etc., but leaving some time each day for improving himself and for preparing himself to become a writer.

He permitted no waste of his time and indulged in no foolish extravagances. And he found he had ample time to do the studying he wanted, and needed, to do.

Soon he became a well known writer with a good income. Also he found that by budgeting his time he had time for many other interests and hobbies, such as painting, music, the theater and sports.

When Arnold Bennett was asked, "Where do you find the time to do all these things?" he would answer that he had only the same amount of time as anyone else; 24 hours per day.

With him it was a question of the management of his time — it was the way he used his time that made the difference — the way he spent it, wisely and without waste.

He kept thinking to himself, "If people could only be made to realize how very valuable time is, of what great value the very minutes were, they would not squander and throw away their time as so many of them are doing."

So he wrote a book and called it, "How To Live On 24 Hours A Day."

This book proved to be a great seller in his own country, and it has been translated into many languages and literally sold all over the world.

The following are a few paragraphs from Arnold Bennett's book:

"Time is the inexpressible raw material of everything. With time, all is possible; without it, nothing. The supply of time is truly a daily miracle, an affair genuinely astonishing when one examines it."

"You wake up in the morning and find your purse magically filled with twenty-four hours of the manufacture of time. It is yours. It is the most precious of possessions. No one can take it from you. It is unalienable. You can no receive either more or less than you received."

there is no punishment. Waste your infinitely precious time as much as you will, and the supply will never be withheld from you. Moreover, you cannot draw on the future. Impossible to get in debt! You can only waste the passing moment. You cannot waste tomorrow; it is kept for you. You cannot waste the next hour; it is kept for you.

"I have said the whole affair is a miracle. Is it not?"

"You have to live on this 24 hours of daily time. Out of it you have to spin health, pleasure, money, content, respect, and the evolution of your immortal soul. Its right use, its most effective use, is a matter of the highest urgency of the most thrilling actuality. All depends on that. Your happiness — the elusive prize that you are all clutching for, my friends! depends on time."

"If one cannot arrange that an income of twenty-four hours a day shall exactly cover all proper items of expenditure, one does muddle one's whole life indefinitely."

"We shall never have any more time. We have, and we always have had, all the time there is."

Benjamin Franklin said, "Do not squander time; for that's the stuff life is made of. If time be of all things the most precious, wasting time must be the greatest extravagance; since lost time is never found again and what we call time enough always proves little enough. Let us then be up and doing, and doing the purpose; so by diligence shall we do more with less perplexity. Sloth (laziness and idleness) makes all things (difficult, but industry makes all things) easy. Employ thy time well, if thou meanest to gain leisure. Since thou art not sure of a minute, throw away not an hour."

The wise men down through the years have tried to impress on you and me the vital importance of the proper use of time. Time is often said to be money, but it is much more — it is life itself. No man can ever do much in this world if he does not know the value of time.

Montaigne wrote, "Let us gather our sweets! Today our life is our own; tomorrow you will be dust, shade, a tale that is told. Ordinary people think merely of how they will spend their time; a man of good sense tries to use it, for he that has the most time has none to lose."

Time is a never-ending, never-resting thing that moves unrelentingly onward like the stream of a big river that can never be stopped. That is why it is so important that we make time our friend, and plan and work to get the most out of the life time that is allotted to us.

Shakespeare said, "Make use of time, let not advantage slip."

Time is represented as going ever on and on. In an old fable, time was represented by an old man who was completely bald-headed, but who had a heavy beard. The old man was asked in the fable, "Where are thy hairs?" and he answered, "Time has taken them all away from me." The fable also says that the old man was asked, "Where are thy feet?" and he answered, "Time has worn them away from me." The fable also says that the old man was asked, "Where are thy hands?" and he answered, "Time has made them old and wrinkled."

"Because none of whom I have read by, though he very much wishes it, may take hold of me from behind."

To a person who will manage his time to the best advantage, time will teach all things. The French say, "He that gains time gains all things."

Time also heals our wounds and soothes our sorrows. Today may be dark and discouraging, but we can look to a better tomorrow. When worried and bothered with all kinds of problems, time will usually clear them up and solve them.

Long ago an old Eastern king with many troubles called his wise men together and asked them to invent a motto — a few magic words that would help him in times of distress.

He required that this motto be brief enough to be engraved on a ring, so that he would always have it before his eyes. Also this motto must be appropriate to every situation and useful on all occasions. Too, it must be wise and true in every circumstance no matter what happened.

The wise men thought and thought, and finally they came to the king with their magic words.

And they were words for every occasion, words to fit every situation, good or bad, words to ease the heart of the king under all circumstances. The words they gave the king to engrave on his ring were these:

Sunday stork shower honors Mrs. Bates

Mrs. Luke Bates was honored with a stork shower Sunday, June 8, hosted by Mesdames Lillian Lader, Dale St. Amant and Linda Sands in the home of Mrs. Isabell St. Amant.

A pink and blue color scheme was used in the decorations.

Guests were Mesdames Loretta Braud, Lana Breaux, and Lou Culbreath, all of Bay St. Louis; Mrs. Elizabeth Bachelor, Chalmette, La. and Mrs. Elton Steen and Mrs. Harry Hebert of Ocean Springs.

"THIS TOO, SHALL PASS AWAY"

These words are wise and true. They have come down to us through the centuries. Poets and philosophers have stressed these five magic words over and over again, each in his own fashion, but always with the same inspiring influence.

Paul Hamilton Hayne was so impressed with these legendary words that he was inspired to write his short poem with the title, "THIS TOO, SHALL PASS AWAY." This poem has been widely read. Here it is:

Art thou in misery, brother? Then I pray
Be comforted — Thy grief shall pass away.
Art thou elated? Ah, be not too gay:
Temper thy joy; this, too, shall pass away.

Art thou in danger? Still let reason sway.
And cling to hope; this, too, shall pass away.

Tempted art thou? In all thine anguish lay
One truth to heart; this, too, shall pass away.

Do rays of loftier glory round thee play?
King-like art thou? This, too, shall pass away!

What'er thou art, where'er thy footsteps stray,
Heed these wise words: This, too, shall pass away.

So whatever your condition today — whatever mine, this too shall pass away.
Constant change is the greatest law of nature.

State pork producers prepare for recession

FARM NEWS AND VIEWS

By MIKE WINDHAM

For the past few years, pork production in Mississippi and throughout the nation has increased dramatically. Much increase has been caused by higher pork prices, but some dark clouds are on the horizon.

Pork production has caught up with consumption rates, and pork prices are falling. "In the past 18 to 24 months, we've had a gradual increase in production. Within the past 12 months, we've had a tremendous increase in production," explains Extension Swine Specialist Dr. Jim Shannon. "Nationally, there's also been an increase in pork consumption."

But, as Shannon points out, when hog production numbers go up, consumption also goes up.

He says it's because the hogs must also be removed from the market. This means high beef prices have helped pork producers as far as movement of pork through the meat counters, and consumption has continued at a steady rate.

"We're looking at a 20 percent nationwide total increase for pork production," the Extension pork specialist says.

In the last three to four years, pork producers have had excellent profit years. These high profits mean many more people have picked up an interest and incentive to enter pork production. This adds to an increase in production.

Most people who entered the pork business in Mississippi started with feeder pig operations. Shannon says feeder pig operations take less money than full-time farrow to finish operations.

Many feeder pig operators raise the young pigs on a part-time basis for extra income. A full-time farrow to finish operation has between 60 and 100 sows. The owner must invest about $1,000 per sow on his farm, including land and facilities.

"We feel like, with the increase in production, we're going to get a downfall in the market. This fall, price predictions point to high 30s and low 40s. Presently, the market is already in the low 40s," Dr. Shannon says.

Feeder pig producers in the state already know prices are dropping. Feeder prices fell between 20 and 30 cents per pound in the last two months.

"That indicates to me the market hog prices will fall drastically this fall. I expect them to be between 35 and 39 cents (per pound) this fall," Dr. Shannon predicts. Presently, there is no indication when the market will move up. Dr. Shannon feels the market won't turn around until producers start selling sows and gilts.

When these animals reach the market, and the national kill rises, there should be some upturn in the market, he explains.

The upward turn in the beef market has helped, but only because consumers are turning to pork as a cheaper alternative.

The traditional beef cycle is about 8 to 10 years compared with the pork cycle, which lasts about four years. Beef producers are presently at the top of their cycle and are enjoying high beef prices based on tight supplies.

Pork producers are at the opposite end, suffering from large supplies and lower prices.

This fall will be rough for Mississippi pork producers. Shannon says if prices drop to the low points they are projected to reach, profits will be questionable and, in many areas, prices will be below the breakeven point.

MISSISSIPPI WEEKLY WEATHER REPORT

Week ending: July 18

WEATHER SUMMARY

(National Weather Service): The remains of a weak cold front provided widespread rain the first part of the week. Hurricane Bob continued this trend when it moved through the state on Wednesday.

The moist unstable air left behind by the first major hurricane continued to produce scattered thundershowers the remainder of the week. Many of these thundershowers produced flash flooding as they dumped 2 to 5 inches of rain within an hour. Totals of 4 to 6 inches for the week were common.

A tornado touched down in Simpson County on Friday and another possible tornado was reported in Rankin County. Due to widespread rain and cloudiness, afternoon temperatures stayed mostly in the 80's which helped produce below normal temperatures for the week. Typical summertime weather prevailed over the weekend.

Sunny days and fair humid nights were the rule with widely scattered afternoon thundershowers.

CROP SUMMARY: General rains improved soil moisture conditions statewide but left water standing in low fields and accompanying winds caused some scattered damage to crops.

Soil moisture supplies were rated mostly surplus but ratings ranged from adequate to excessive. An average of 1.7 days was suitable for fieldwork compared to 6.3 days last week and 5.7 days for the same week last year.

Soybean planting was virtually complete and 97 percent of the acreage was up to a stand, equal to the average for the date, compared to 95 percent last year. About 11 percent of the acreage was blooming compared to 27 percent last year and 19 percent average.

The crop was in good to fair condition. The cotton acreage was 92 percent squaring compared to 95 percent last year and 65 percent average. About 54 percent of the acreage was blooming compared to 71 percent last year and eight percent was setting bolls, well behind both last year's 19 percent and the average of 34 percent. The crop was in fair condition.

The rice acreage was in good condition and was two percent headed compared to six percent last year and seven percent average.

The corn acreage was 62 percent silked compared to 90 percent last year and 74 percent average. About 39 percent of the acreage had reached the dough stage compared to 53 percent last year at this time. The crop was in mostly good condition.

Sorghum planting was 98 percent complete compared to 56 percent last year at this time. About 21 percent of the acreage was headed compared to last year's 32 percent.

Hay crops were 50 percent harvested compared to 55 percent last year and 45 percent average.

Peaches were 49 percent harvested compared to last year's 48 percent and the average of 66 percent.

Watermelon harvest progressed to 39 percent complete compared to 30 percent last year and 31 percent average.

Pastures were in good condition. Diesel supplies were rated tight to adequate. Gasoline supplies were rated adequate to tight. L.P. Gas supplies were rated mostly adequate.

"COMMENTS" The county has had 2 to 5 inches of rain during the last week. Crops now need cultivation and pest emergence.

LEE CO. "Much needed rain came just in time; however, some damage to corn from high winds."

YAZOO CO. "In the past few days we have had a lot of rain. It has helped the crops but it has also caused some damage to the corn from high winds."

NESHO CO. "The county has had a lot of rain in the past few days. It has helped the crops but it has also caused some damage to the corn from high winds."

WINDY CO. "The county has had a lot of rain in the past few days. It has helped the crops but it has also caused some damage to the corn from high winds."

around some, but no damage to speak of. The general rain was ideal."

ADAMS CO.

"Hurricane Bob brought good general rain to the whole county - really helped everyone! Some beans have been under great moisture stress - blooming at only knee high."

FORREST CO. "Wind and rain - before and after hurricane 'Bob' have kept farmers out of the fields this week. Soybean insect damage minimal thus far."

Winds and waters of Hurricane Bob devastate '79 infant least terns

High tides pushed by gale force winds of Hurricane Bob combined with heavy rains to destroy most of the young least terns nesting along the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The baby birds, most of them unable to fly, either drowned in the rising water or were killed by the traffic along Highway 90 where some tried to escape the water.

According to Mrs. Judith Toups, president of the Gulf Coast Chapter of the Audubon Society, the hardest hit nesting area is in Long Beach. "The shallowness of this beach along with the fact it is so close to the highway resulted in loss of about 85 percent of the young birds," she lamented.

The Gulfport and Biloxi nesting grounds fared only slightly better with 10 to 15 percent survival rates.

"Any bird under three weeks old had very little chance of making it," stated Mrs. Toups.

In an effort to save some of the terns from the rising water, volunteers captured many of the young birds.

These were returned to the beaches later in the week in hopes they could find their parents.

"However," Mrs. Toups said, "after observing the terns all day, I did not locate even one adult bird feeding the young ones. The little birds are lost and disoriented. Their chances for survival are almost zero. The adult birds will not feed any of the babies except their own," she explained.

Some of the young terns were recaptured and put in adopted homes. "At least we will learn what they will eat in captivity," stated Mrs. Toups.

The birds are being fed chopped-up fish.

Experts at Boston University and the Smithsonian Institute stated that usually the best thing to do in a natural disaster is to

"just turn your back and pretend nothing is happening. The long-term effect is almost always the same."

The Least Tern (Sterna albifrons) is a small bird, measuring nine inches in length with a wing spread of 20 inches.

The adult bird has a black crown and nape, white forehead and grey mantle and rump.

The wings are dark grey on the outer edge and along the shaft. The underwings and body are white and the feet are orange.

Leaving their native South America, the least terns arrive along the Gulf Coast in late April or early May.

Nesting begins almost immediately with the birds going through their mating rituals. The male birds do screeching, acrobatic flights and dives trying to get the attention of a female.

When the male spots a likely candidate, he offers her a fish he has caught. If the female accepts, they mate and remain companions for the rest of the nesting season.

After the eggs are laid they take 21 days to hatch. Both the male and the female take turns setting on the nest. The young birds when first hatched are extremely vulnerable.

The direct rays of the sun could easily kill them.

After 24 hours or so, the chicks leave their nests and look for shelter and protection in near by vegetation.

The young birds are completely dependent on their parents for about six weeks.

By late August or early September the young terns have learned to fly and fish on their own.

They are now ready for the long trip back to South America.

The birds that were hatched this year will return to the coast in two years to nest.

During the 1890's, the least terns were hunted almost to extinction.

The feathers were used to decorate women's hats. Though the efforts of the Audubon Society and other organizations, plume hunting was stopped in time to save the birds.

There were only 20 pairs of least terns nesting on the Coast in 1973. Today that number is in the thousands.

Contrary to popular belief, the type of least tern here on the coast is not on the endangered species list.

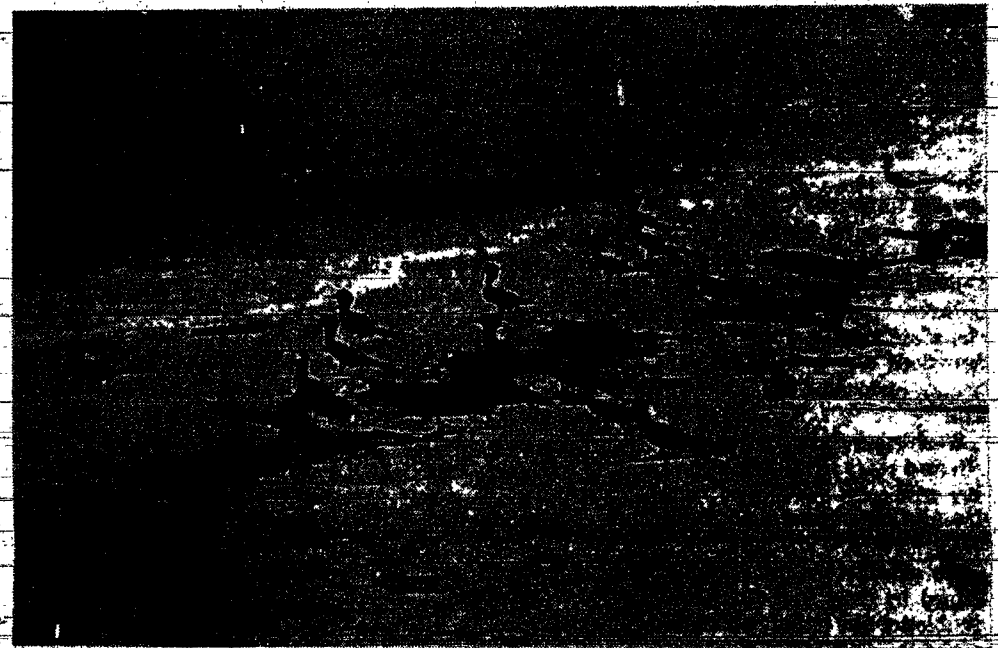

It is, however, protected by the Federal Migratory Birds Treaty and by a Harrison County Ordinance.

That ordinance states:

"Any person found molesting or destroying a least tern nest, harming the terns or engaging in other actions adversely affecting the least terns shall be guilty of a misdemeanor."

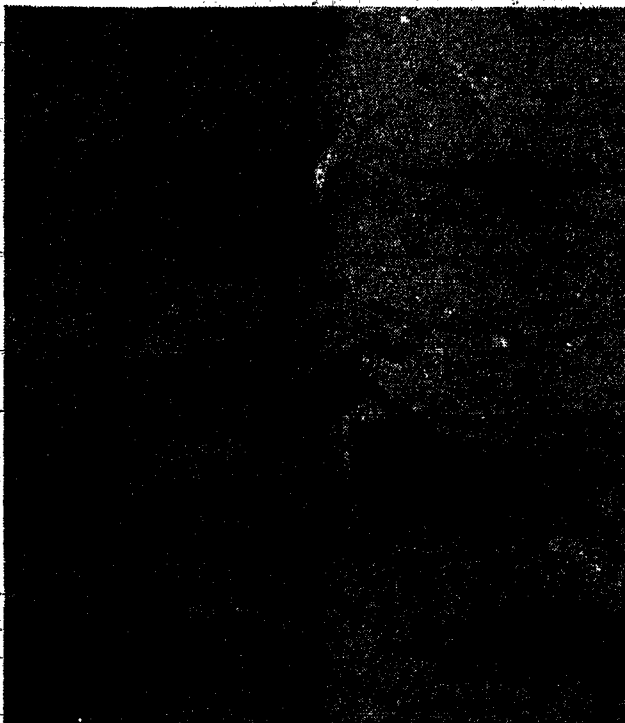

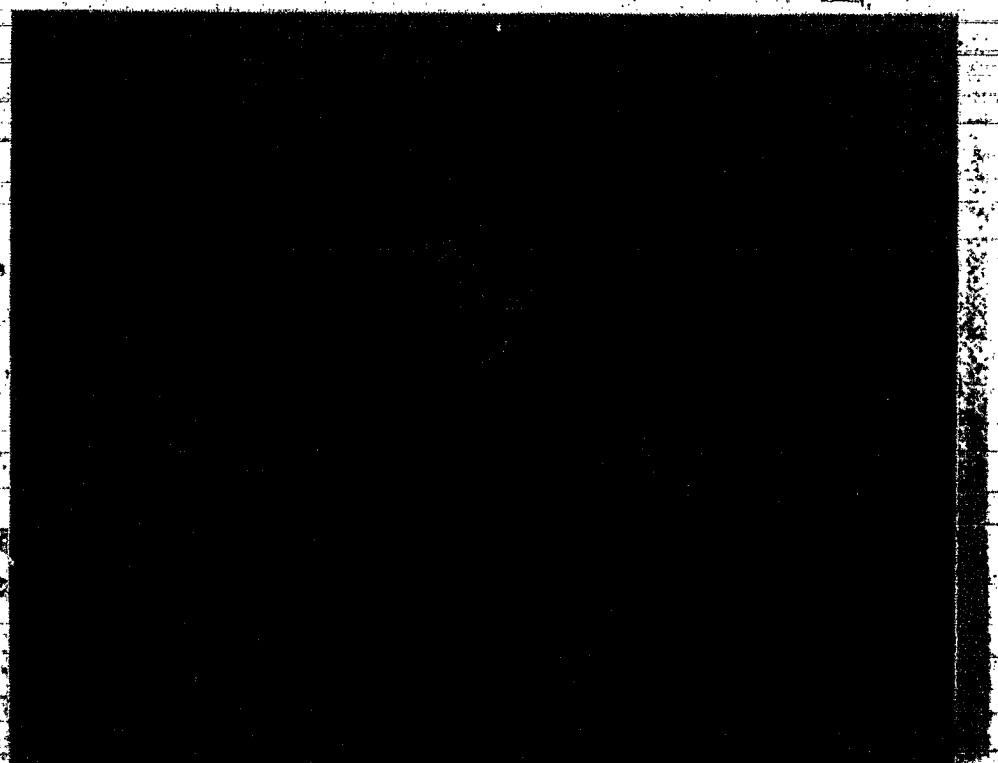

THIS IS PART OF the nesting area in Long Beach. The beach is not maintained and vegetation allowed to grow. This induces the least terns to nest here instead of along the entire Coast where they would interfere with people using the beaches.

ADULT BIRDS SEEM to be guarding the beach. Very few young terns could be found after the flood.

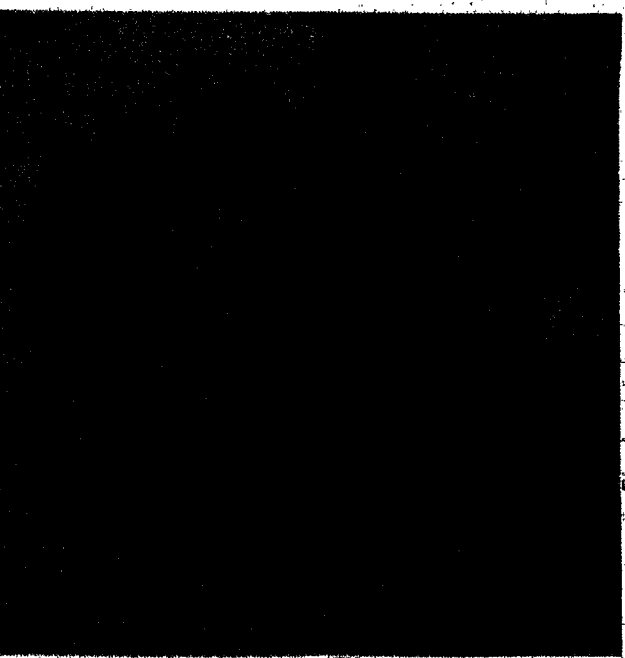

ABOUT 24 HOURS after hatching the baby terns take shelter in nearby vegetation - top photo. Trash left behind by careless visitors can also offer a cozy place to sleep. - Bottom photo.

PARENT BIRD SITS on nest while mate is fishing. Beach maintenance crews placed sticks near nest to warn of presence of eggs. The spotted eggs and young birds blend in with the beach and are easily stepped on by the unaware.

ALTHOUGH TWO IS the usual number of eggs, it is not at all uncommon to find three or just one egg per nest.

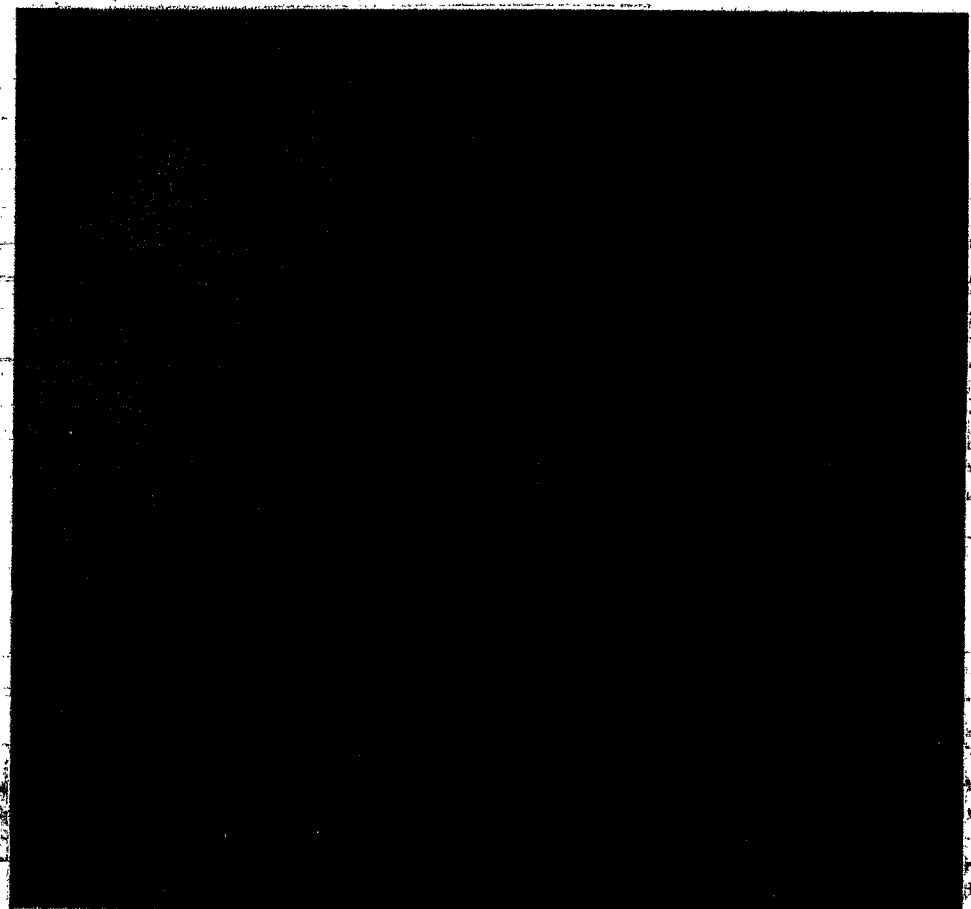

THIS LITTLE FEEBOW has just hatched. For the next six weeks he will be completely dependent upon his parents for food and protection.

Story and photos

by Randy Ponder

ALL THE EGGS in a nest generally hatch within two days of each other. This picture, as were most others on this page, was taken just prior to Hurricane Bob's arrival. It is very unlikely this little tern survived. When the high waters receded the beach was covered with dead birds. Any eggs that were unhatched were also destroyed. Once an egg is chilled, it will not hatch.

THESE BIRDS ARE several days old. It takes the young birds about six weeks to learn to fly and catch food on their own.

Adult courses offered by Coast Colleges

To be at C of C office

Representatives from the University of Southern Mississippi - Gulf Coast and Pearl River Junior College will be in Bay St. Louis on Saturday, July 28, to talk with individuals interested in beginning work on their college degree in Hancock County.

Junior college coursework is currently being offered at the Pearl River Junior College-Hancock County Vocational Technical Center in Bay St. Louis which meets some freshman and sophomore requirements for many degree programs available at USM-GulfPark.

Representatives will be located at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce in Bay St. Louis from 9 a.m. to talk with interested individuals.

Personnel from the two institutions will be able to discuss specific educational needs of individuals and help in recommending ways to meet these needs.

"We will use this time to acquaint people with the fact that coursework on the freshman and sophomore levels is available at the Vo-Tech Center and this work fulfills some freshman and sophomore requirements for degree programs with USM in Long Beach," Al Bourgeois, director of the Vo-Tech Center said.

Pearl River Junior College currently offers about eight courses per semester at the Vo-Tech Center that meet some of the requirements for USM degree programs available on the Coast.

"Our offerings are few at this point, but if we find we have a need to expand these additional educational needs, I am sure that we can expand our courses," Bourgeois said.

According to Bourgeois no appointment is necessary to talk with representatives and anyone interested in beginning or continuing their college degree program should come and let their educational needs be known. USM representatives will also be available to talk with individuals that may not need freshman and sophomore coursework, but need to begin their degree programs at the junior or senior level having completed lower division work.

ATTEND CONFERENCE - Area youth court counselors participating in the recent Youth Court Seminar in Jackson included Jerry Strbaugh and Susan Maleve, both of Bay St. Louis. ASK DOCTOR HIPPOCRATES

BY EUGENE SCHOENFELD, M.D.

Dear Dr. Schoenfeld:

Thirty years old and I still have acne! Will this never stop? The owner of my local health food store advised taking two 50,000 unit Vitamin capsules a day for a month. What do you think?

Answer: Although acne tends to disappear along with other bad memories of adolescence it may persist in some individuals. You should approach this problem from several directions.

Make sure you have reasonable food habits. Dermatologists no longer believe myths such as chocolate causing acne, but a nutritious diet is essential to health, including a healthy skin.

Wash your face and other affected parts several times a day with soap and water. It doesn't matter what kind you choose. Severe cases of acne are sometimes helped by daily ingestions of antibiotics like tetracycline or applying an antibiotic solution to the skin.

Relax your mind and you'll give your skin a break as well. In case you haven't noticed, acne is frequently associated with emotional turmoil.

The human potential movement has provided endless opportunities for meditation and other means of relaxation. Choose one method that suits you and follow it.

Include saunas in your life. Saunas ease the mind and help cleanse the skin by opening pores and activating sweat glands.

Now, about large doses of Vitamin A. Your friend at the health food store means well but is putting you in danger. Vitamin A toxicity has appeared in adults who chronically used doses of 75,000 units a day.

In children, doses of 20,000 to 60,000 units a day have produced Vitamin A intoxication within one to three months.

Vitamin A poisoning causes irritability, bone pain, cracked lips and an enlarged liver.

The recommended daily allowance of Vitamin A is 5,000 units. A great majority of people satisfy this requirement through their diet. If you question whether your diet meets your vitamin needs, find the least expensive multivitamin providing recommended daily allowances (RDAs) and take one a day.

Surely it's unnatural to take ten times the amount of a vitamin normally provided by food.

Dear Dr. Schoenfeld:

I am shocked and amazed at the advice you gave about vaginitis. I have read your column under Dr. Hip and your more recent column and always thought you gave helpful and thoughtful advice to your readers. However, I think your advice on vaginitis is a lot of baloney.

To blame vaginitis on "altered states of consciousness" it seems to me, sets medicine back to the Middle Ages. In my experience (which is not limited) I would say that vaginitis is a direct result of contact with an infected person.

I suppose ultimately most illness is caused by the mind; however, to tell this to a woman who has had itching and burning in a sensitive area of her body is not solving the problem.

Why don't the men try "meditative techniques" or "vacations" so that they won't infect people?

A Woman Who Has Been Around

Answer: Vaginitis is associated with specific organisms such as strains of yeast, trichomonas or certain bacteria.

But women are more susceptible to infection from these organisms under certain conditions.

Pregnancy, diabetes mellitus, and use of birth-control pills or broad-spectrum antibiotics are some of the certain circumstances which may alter the vaginal ecology, thus increasing chances for infection.

Emotional stress also seems to correspond with increased vaginitis in many women.

Yes, a specific bug is associated with the vaginitis. But it must find favorable conditions in which to flourish. Emotional stress can produce a conducive arrangement for vaginitis, probably by subtle changes in hormone levels.

One of the traditional objections to a father watching childbirth is the possibility that he may faint in the delivery room.

Recently I helped care for a young man who not only fainted in the delivery room but in the process left some of his teeth in his lower lip.

drove the remaining upper incisors into his gums; splintering part of the upper jaw; lacerated his chin and broke his lower jaw in two places.

A plastic surgeon pulled his teeth down, repaired the wounds and wired his jaw shut. The childbirth was otherwise uneventful.

Dr. Schoenfeld welcomes your questions. Write to him in care of the Echo.

Watermelons go to early history

Watermelons have had a "juicy" history. The seeds of history go back to prehistoric time. The origin of watermelon was thought to be by some great leader in southern Italy, India or Asia.

Ancient kings and queens knew the importance of fruit gardens around the palaces. Watermelon was probably one of the many delicacies grown in these gardens and served often on "royal menus."

However, in all the regal splendor at that time, never did a king or queen know the taste and goodness of watermelon as the Mississippi consumers know it today.

June, July and August are the three peak watermelon marketing months. It is not uncommon for 80 percent of the crop to be marketed in this period.

Mississippi producers plant three varieties of watermelons for commercial sales. These varieties are Jubilee, Charleston Gray and Garrisonian. The Jubilee and Garrisonian are the long type and their coloring is light green with dark green stripes. The Jubilee variety has black seeds in comparison to tan seeds found in the Garrisonian variety. The Charleston-Gray is long in length and is gray-colored.

Take a cool, crisp watermelon to your next picnic for the perfect dessert or for a snack.

How do you choose the "perfect" watermelon? Select your watermelon with care to get the most for your money.

You'll find whole melons - chilled or unchilled, halves or slices. Choose the amount to fit your need.

Watermelons should be mature when you buy them. The larger ones have more edible flesh, proportionately, than smaller ones. The popular "thump" test isn't really reliable when selecting watermelons. Stale and fully-ripe watermelons both give a hollow sound.

When selecting watermelons, color is the best key to ripeness. A yellowish underside, regardless of a rich green color on the rest of the melon, is a good sign of ripeness. White or pale green are signs of an immature melon.

When buying a melon, select one that is symmetrically shaped, firm and has a velvety bloom. The melon should appear dull rather than shiny. Although more expensive, you may be sure of getting a good melon by buying cut watermelon. Avoid "white heart" - the hard, white streak running lengthwise through the watermelon. Seeds should be dark brown or black depending on the variety. The flesh should have a fresh, firm texture and bright color.

An uncut watermelon will keep for about 10 days in the refrigerator. When you cut it cover the surface with moisture-proof paper and plan to use it within two days.

Nutritionally, a four-inch wedge of watermelon supplies about half the daily requirement for vitamins A and C. And that's not bad for only 115 calories.

Count on the medium size watermelon weighing between 15 to 20 pounds. This size will serve the need of most families. An average-sealing is about 2 pounds. Watermelons are highly perishable. Always remember to handle with care. Dropping, rolling or squeezing can injure the flesh of watermelon and cause waste.

What's a summer in Mississippi without ice-cold watermelon? Pick up a watermelon on your way home today and enjoy some state-grown goodness!

TO FREEZE

With the help of the modern freezer, it's possible to enjoy watermelon during the winter.

WATERMELON

Remove seeds. Cut-fresh into small slices, balls or cubes and pack into containers.

Cover with a cold 30 percent syrup (2 cups sugar and 4 cups water) for each pint package of melon.

Allow ample headspace in containers for freezing expansion.

For wide-top opening allow about 1/2 inch per pint.

For narrow-top opening allow about 3/4 inch per pint.

Seal and freeze.

When you serve it next winter, do not allow frozen melon to thaw. Complete thawing turns the flesh flabby. Serve while it is still filled with ice crystals.

MELON PUNCH

1 cup sugar

1/2 cup water

2 (2 inch) sticks cinnamon

6 cups grapefruit juice

3 cups orange juice

1 quart watermelon juice

Heat sugar and water for 10 minutes. Then add remaining ingredients and chill.

Contacting your post office about holding or forwarding mail before leaving on vacation will turn out to be time well spent, Postmaster Tom Hill reminded residents of Bay St. Louis today.

"Letting mail or newspapers overflow a book that includes ZIP Codes of those you plan to correspond with.

Postmaster Hill also says taking the time to write legibly will help immensely in getting cards and letters to their destination more quickly.

The postmaster suggests that householders ask a friend or neighbor to empty their mailbox daily when they're going to be gone for a relatively short time, have the post office hold the mail as long as 30 days, or have it forwarded to a vacation address.

-Buy enough stamps or post cards and other correspondence before leaving on vacation.

Remember to use the right amount of postage – ten cents for post cards and 15 cents for letters that weigh one ounce or less. For letters that weigh more than one ounce the additional postage is 13 cents an ounce.

—Make sure that you deposit mail where it is most frequently picked-up; when possible, at post offices or in downtown, business district collection boxes.

—Take along an address

HOUSE PAGE—Lisa Smith, left, of Bay St. Louis recently returned from Washington where she served as a page in the U.S. House of Representatives for the last two months. She was appointed to the position by Third District Congressman G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery (right). Lisa is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Mike Smith.

Pulpit Points

By DR. L.S. WALKER was a brace running up both sides of his left leg - a leather kneecap on the badly twisted leg. The youngster said:

The story is told of a man who put up a sign, Puppies for sale." He no sooner had the sign up than there was a small boy standing by wanting to know how much the puppies were going to cost.

The man told him that since they were pretty good dogs he didn't expect to let them go for less than $25.

With a look of disappointment on his face the youngster asked if he could see them.

The man called, "Lady", and whistled. Out of the kennel and down the runway came 'Lady', with five little balls of fur rolling along behind her; one lagged considerably.

The boy spotted the one lagging behind—and asked, "What is wrong with him?" The man said: "Well, the veterinarian has examined him and he says there is no socket in the right hip. The dog will live, but he will never be much of a dog."

"That is the one I want to buy," replied the youngster. "I will give you all I have right now, $2.85, and pay you 50 cents a month until I get him paid for."

The man shook his head. "No, we will make a deal all right, but you don't want that dog. He will never be able to run, jump, and play with you. You want one of the other dogs."

The lad very slowly pulled up his little trousers. There who cry out for someone care and understand.

BHS graduate named outstanding student

Robby Boyd, a recent graduate of Bay Senior High School, has been named one of the "Outstanding Students in Vocational Education" in Mississippi according to Dr. Charles Holladay, state superintendent of education. Robby shares this honor with 11 other students from across the state.

The group will be featured one each month on the Mississippi Vocational Education Calendar for the coming school year. The calendar contains important dates in the school year and is distributed to educators in the state by the Vocational and Technical Division of the State Department of Education (SDE).

Robby is listed in the Who's Who in American High Schools and was a leader in DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) in high school. DECA is a student organization sponsored by the Vocational and Technical Division of the SDE. He served as president of the Bay Senior High DECA Chapter, was named outstanding marketing student his junior and senior years and received the award for the 1979 DECA Student of the Year.

Robby placed second in district DECA competition and was a semifinalist in the state competition. "There's so much to learn in distributive education," said Robby. "I've always been interested in business and the DECA program has helped me a great deal."

"I learned how to speak in public in DECA," he continued. "I used to be nervous about it, but now I think I can speak on anything."

A high school merit student, Robby lettered in football, basketball and tennis and was a member of the student council. He was president and outstanding member of the year of Phi Kappa, a high school fraternity.

Robby will enter the University of Southern Mississippi in the fall, and he feels that distributive education has been beneficial for him in his plans to further his education.

"One thing I really like about DE is the way it gives people a chance to get a job and work if they choose not to go to college," he said. "As for me, I plan to stay in marketing and eventually own my own business. I like being my own boss."

Market outlook remains bright for expanding soybean crops

The president of the American Soybean Association says he expects continued strong demand for soybeans and soybean products.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reported last week a record 71.7 million acres planted to soybeans for 1979 and said the soybean harvested area would exceed that of corn by 1.1 million acres.

It is the first time in history that the soybean harvested area will exceed corn.

"American soybean farmers planted a record crop in response to favorable conditions and good prices," says ASA President Melvin Groot, a soybean farmer from Manson, Iowa.

"Developing enough demand to use this nation's first two billion bushel soybean crop will be a challenge, but I do believe that the miracle soybean may again surprise the experts," he said.

"ASA country directors in our traditional European and Asian markets are expecting five to eight percent increases in demand while ASA directors in Eastern Europe, Spain, Portugal, Korea, and Southeast Asia see even larger potential increases," Groot noted.

American soybean growers, through one-half to one cent a bushel grower investment checkoff programs in 20 states, have been working for more than 20 years to expand worldwide demand for soybeans and soybean products.

The total value of the American soybean crop has increased 12 times from $80 million to nearly $12 billion since market development activities began in 1956.

Soybean farmers serving as directors of the American Soybean Association have approved implementation of more than 150 market development activities in 76 countries.

"These market development activities have built tremendous demand for soybeans around the world," Groot says.

"In fact, many of our international customers are pleased with our record 1979 soybean crop because they were so concerned that the U.S. could not produce enough soybeans to meet the demand."

"A careful review of soybeans show that soybean supply and demand have grown dramatically over the past 20 years," he continued.

"We produced an average of 484 million bushels from 1955-59 and exported 25.9 percent of production. The 1978 crop totaled 1.64 million bushels and 56 percent of the crop will be exported. Estimated exports for the 1978-79 crop year exceed a total U.S. production in 1967," Groot reports.

ASA officials cite Korea and Southeast Asia as examples of dramatic growth in worldwide soybean markets.

Korea's per capita income has risen from $100 per person in 1960 to about $1,200 in 1978. Their beef consumption increased 11 percent from 1976 to 1977 while poultry consumption jumped 18 percent during the same year. As a result, Korea's imports of soybeans have increased dramatically and could reach one million tonnes (37 million bushels) by the mid 1980's, the association feels.

The five countries in Southeast Asia (Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, Singapore and Thailand) show steady economic growth and a total population of 240 million. Their increasing consumption of livestock and poultry have increased the need of soybean meal as a feed component.

These five countries import only 25 percent of their current soybean needs from the U.S. while Japan and Taiwan import about 95 percent of their soybeans from the U.S.

"These two areas along with Latin America, Eastern Europe, the Middle East, China and the Soviet Union represent a tremendous potential for soybean consumption."

Two attend nutrition workshop

Mrs. Willie Mae Keys and Leola Stoufflet, both of Hancock County Public Schools, have been chosen to attend a Nutrition Education Workshop to be held at Gulfport High School July 24-26.

The workshops are designed to encourage interdisciplinary nutrition education in public schools.

The workshops are conducted by The University of Mississippi Department of Home Economics, and sponsored by the Mississippi State Department of Education.

ROBBY BOYD of Bay St. Louis, has been named one of the "Outstanding Students in Vocational Education" in Mississippi according to Dr. Charles Holladay, state superintendent of education. Robby will be featured in the Mississippi Vocational Education Calendar distributed to educators in the state by the Vocational and Technical Division of the State Department of Education.

MAKING TRUCKERS TRUMP

President Carter made trumps out of truckers and turned his hand over to his partner and left the game to attend to other business as the nation's energy fiasco took on a strong resemblance to a sloppily played card game.

And farmers, as important as their hands are, don't like to be trumped! Allan Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said from his Park Ridge, Illinois, farm organization headquarters late last week that farmers expect, and will accept, nothing less than top priority for needed fuel supplies.

He referred to President Carter's recent suspension of the Department of Energy's special Rule 9, which had guaranteed farmers top priority on fuel supplies for the 1979 crop.

"We insist Rule 9 be replaced with a new top fuel priority to all phases of food and fiber production and distribution, including transportation," Grant said. The farm spokesman added that it does little good for the farmers of the nation to produce a crop without provisions for moving the commodities through the market system to consumers.

The President's action essentially cancelled farm fuel priority and gave it to the nation's truckers instead in an effort to appease them in their demands which have resulted in a nationwide trucking strike, boycott, and violence in many states where independent truckers have tried to carry goods despite the strike.

Independent Truckers Association has disrupted the flow of goods and services throughout the nation reveals what can happen when any one link in the food distribution chain breaks down," Grant said.

The strike began in mid-June at the onset of the fruit and vegetable harvesting season as truckers at critical distribution points in the nation refused to load green tomatoes, peaches, cherries, and other highly perishable commodities. The strike's timing also coincided with the beginning of the bulk of the fruit and vegetable shipments from the West Coast which, if it continued, will create a massive food shortage across the nation.

Grant said the American Farm Bureau Federation already has received reports of milk being dumped due to spoilage and chickens going that were being hauled to slaughter houses.

The Farm Bureau head appealed to Mike Parkhurst, president of the Independent Truckers Association to end the boycott.

He said Farm Bureau is opposed to violence and does not think that's the way to do things.

He pledged to the truckers that if the protest is halted, Farm Bureau will step up efforts to help solve some of the real problems of concern to both truckers and farmers.

In Mississippi, Hugh M. Arant of Rulesville, president of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, said farmers have grave concerns over the President's action from both the production and harvest standpoints.

"He said Mississippi experienced wet and cold weather conditions in the state this spring that delayed crop plantings, particularly in the Yazoo River basin of the lower delta where landowners had to wait for floodwaters to recede and the land to dry out before planting could begin at the eleventh hour.

"Some of them are hardly through planting," Arant said, "and still have a long way to go before their crops are made and they have no assurances that diesel fuel will be delivered when they run out."

"And coming on us hard are our harvest requirements both in the weeks ahead for watermelons and cantaloupes that will be ripening and ready to move within the next week, and for Mississippi's major cash rowcrops in the fall season.

We have a host of other enterprises important to the state and nation that depend on two-way trucking services, and none of us can afford either fuel cut-offs or boycotts."

Hancock Heart Fund tops 1979 campaign

The Hancock County Heart Fund campaign has surpassed its goal of $3400.00 by $1.67. It was announced today by Mrs. David A. Treutel, Fund Raising Chairman.

"We are grateful to the people who have worked hard in all phases of the campaign and to those who made monetary contributions," Mrs. Treutel said.

"The funds raised will support Heart Association lifesaving programs of research, high blood pressure screenings, cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) training, and education," added Mrs. Treutel.

The chairman pointed out that "A Time to Remember" the Heart Association's service provides year-round support to Heart programs. This service provides a way to honor occasions in the lives of friends, relatives and business associates. "Individuals, clubs or businesses can use the service to make a memorial gift, to honor special occasions such as birthday, graduations and anniversaries and to send good wishes," said Mrs. Treutel.

She emphasized that gifts made to the "A Time to Remember" program and the well wishes," said Mrs. Treutel.
